HENRY COUNTY JURY TO TRY SALLIE CASE

Action Against City For $7,000 Will Be Heard
On Wednesday

Court adjourned after a brief session this morning until next Monday when the trial of Miss Blanche Long who died at Mrs. E. C. Taylor's home on Patton street last Tuesday morning has been abandoned and the coroner's jury which heard evidence will be called together on Tuesday to render that is expected to be a non-committal verdict.

The trial of Stanley Cunningham's suit against Dr. J. L. Jennings resulted in a hung jury. The action was, according to attorneys, against the city, a typical "holding" case with the evidence of the plaintiff and the defense diametrically opposed. Mr. Cunningham testified that Dr. Jennings did urge him to buy $750 stock in the Rich-Moore corporation, which he ultimately did, while Dr. Jennings testified directly to the contrary, and denied that he had ever approached Mr. Cunningham, adding that he had only a slight acquaintance with Mr. Cunningham. With the evidence conflicting on this essential point the case went to the jury which, after an hour's deliberation, announced its verdict.

Yesterday's storm caused a delay of eight hours. In the early hours of Thursday night the Shenandoah was sailing over New Mexico and had some difficulties in making the trip here, bucking a gale of 40 miles an hour.

Her trailing shadow from the speed ing fan above had slowed down to between 20 and 30 miles an hour over the rugged farms 6,000 feet below. Heavy clouds as thick as fog surrounded the ship.

All on board were in full-lined electrically heated flying suits as the ship began the crossing of the Rockies, the hardest stretch of the 9,000 miles test cruise.

The last part of the 1,500 mile voyage from Fort Worth involved constant duty for the men and officers with only snatch of sleep. A sudden storm drove four thousand feet of soggy snow to weight down the envelope of the ship.

"The ship has arrived at Sandiego on schedule ready for duty with the fleet if necessary and the cruise has been entirely satisfactory as a test of the ship," said Lieut. Commander Lansdowne, captain of the Shenandoah.

In the narrow valley below the dirigible lights flickered from the windows. Automobiles threw broad flames along the roads and an occasional headlight from a passing locomotive stood clear and bright as the Shenandoah entered the pass at Whitewater.

Standing at the right of the operating gondola, operating below the long tube of the ship, lights and shadows seemed to be passed only a few feet apart and a procession of automobile could be seen following the ship to the city.

(By The Associated Press) SANDIEGO, Calif., Oct. 11.—Because a rear cabin was smashed while the Shenandoah was being moored last night after completing her trans-continental flight and some repairs to her motors, the big dirigible probably will stay at her mooring mast at North Island all day today according to a telephone message from the North Island navy flying field.

A hole about six feet long was torn in the rear cabin of the great dirigible, according to the communication from North Island. Although this damage was described as of a minor nature, it together with some work to be done on two of the ship's six motors, was expected to keep her here today.

The great navy dirigible Shenandoah was moored safely to the mast at North Island early today after the first trans-continental flight by a rigid airship. Ahead of her lay a flight to the Pacific coast to Camp Lewis, Wash., then about-face for Lakehurst, and the possibility later of a trip to Hawaii.

The great vessel arrived in good order except that two of her motors needed overhauling, despite the hazardous flight over the Rocky mountains. Delicate winds that swept her fragile sides nearutting peaks and a storm that piled the huge bag of helium gas heavy with snow, the Shenandoah lazily answered her controls and pulled through the threatening passes in the mountains at an elevation of more than 7,000 feet.

Safely past the last barriers to a successful journey, the Shenandoah crew leaped light-heartedly to the ground after she was moored at North Island and indulged in a smoke fest. Going without tobacco was the hardest job of the 3,000 mile jaunt across the continent, the men said, as they puffed away at pipes, cigars and cigarettes.

Stockholders Plan to Sue Bailey Bros.

To Claim Deliberate Effort
Was Made by Competitor to Throttle Organization

Pattick county stockholders in the recently defunct tobacco firm of Bailey Brothers are preparing to file claims before the referee in bankruptcy for the amount of their stock.

Mr. Bailey formerly lived in Patrick and with the expansion of the firm which had headquarters in Winston-Salem, stock was sold freely in that county among Mr. Bailey's friends.

The tobacco concern it is recalled, entered into a contract with the stockholders in Patrick in the form of a letter to the various banks of the county, stating that they would purchase this stock at par.

The claims are to be filed at a meeting of the Patrick county stockholders which is soon to be called.

In the meantime, it is learned that the stockholders generally are planning to enter suit against Bailey Brothers. The action will be directed against the former members of the creditors committee among which are a well known New York bank also a Winston bank. The company, it is understood, contained two definite allegations. Perhaps the most sensational charge to be made is that a nationally known competitor of Bailey Brothers conspired to wreck the tobacco concern for the purpose of not only acquiring its property but its brands and trademarks as well as its overseas affiliations. The labor unions are also interested in the suit and are planning to support the stockholders.

One of the allegations made is that when Bailey Brothers was engaged in an extensive advertising campaign in New York, the corporation's liabilities were called and its credit was shut off.

Board Probing Langley Field Blimp Disaster

(By The Associated Press) NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 11.—The body of Lieut. Bruce N. Martin, the tobacco concern pilot who died last night as the result of injuries received when the army blimp No. 2 was shot down at Langley Field, a prematurely exploded bomb it was carrying, probably went to Arlington for burial. Mrs. Martin reached Langley Field yesterday afternoon via airplane from Aberdeen, Md., but her husband died without regaining consciousness.

Lieut. Alfred W. Fitch, Waco, and Sergeant Jenkins are all reported to be improving this morning.

Fitch is the most seriously injured of the four but he has a chance for recovery, attending physicians think.

A board of inquiry is busy at Langley Field today in an attempt to ascertain the cause of the explosion which ripped the blimp wide open and sent it to the ground. Five men were killed in the crash, one of whom was thought to be a member of the aircraft's preparatory to hurling it at a target in Back River.

KILLED MAN SO HE MIGHT WED WIFE, CONFESSES

Youth Admits Guilt and Involves Wife of Dead Man

(By The Associated Press) MIDDLEBURGH, Pa., Oct. 11.—The maximum sentence of not less than ten years nor more than 20 years in the pen was imposed today by Judge Potter on Ralph H. Shadel, 18, who was found guilty of the second degree murder in the Mercer county court yesterday for the killing of his employer, Harvey C. Willow.

Shadel had confessed that he shot Willow on a hunting trip last December. In the confession he declared he had committed the deed after Mrs. Willow had urged him to do so recently, who was in love with him.

Mrs. Willow will go on trial Monday as an accessory.

(By The Associated Press) MIDDLEBURGH, Pa., Oct. 11.—Ralph Shadel, youthful farm hand, has been convicted of murder in the second degree on his eighteenth birthday. A jury after deliberation which would last two hours last night, found that he killed Harvey C. Willow his employer, last December.

Worsham Street bridge is not safe for motor traffic and its use in order to relieve congestion on the street car line is not to be thought of. This is the substance of the decision reached by the Public Works committee of the council which recently was assigned to have the structure examined in order to see if it could not be used.

The bridge is a wooden structure.

Shadel welcomed the verdict as a birthday gift. His one wish, he declared, had been that his life would be spared. When the verdict was read he smiled and then as he was embraced by his parents, he burst into laughter.

A sentence of 20 years was imposed.

A sentence of 20 years was imposed.

Shadel and Willow went hunting on the morning of December 10th. That night the youth and Mrs. Willow, who is 38 years old, visited neighbors and told them Willow had not returned and that they feared he was a victim of foul play.

Willow's body, with the head nearly shot off, was found in a thicket on a neighboring property.

The friendship of the boy and Mrs. Willow aroused suspicion. Shadel recently confessed that he and Mrs. Willow had fallen in love shortly after he had gone to the Willow home in March, 1923, and that he had shot his employer so that he could marry the widow.

He said they had planned the murder together and that Mrs. Willow repeatedly urged him to carry out the plan.

Where Are Auto Taxes Spent?

By ISRAEL KLEIN

Motor officials ask—What are the states doing with the receipts they collect from motorists in the form of licenses, registration fees, taxes, etc., on the automobile? According to statistics compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, all this money is not spent for the benefit of the motorist. Where the difference goes is a matter of conjecture.

But complaints have been reaching state authorities that motorists object to being taxed for the maintenance of departments from which they derive no direct benefits. Automobile clubs are fighting just this system of taxation, yet plans for additional means of taxing motorists keep cropping up here and there.

Not All Used

Out of 36 states deriving a revenue totaling nearly $32,500,000 a year from gasoline taxes, thirty-two apply parts of these funds to highway work, the kind of state activity in which the motorist is most concerned. A little over 20,000,000 is paid out for highway construction and maintenance.

Where does the remaining $12,500,000 go?

Twenty-four of the 36 states having gasoline taxation apply all or nearly all these funds to highway work, six spend half these revenues on such improvements, two less than this proportion and the remaining four use the receipts for other than highway purposes.

Most receipts from registration fees, license and permits, however, go directly into the highway funds in all states. Only five of the 48 states applied none of these receipts to state road work in any direct form last year.

The Sure Spot

Of course, these five states have roads to maintain and new highways to build. But whatever is spent for these purposes comes from a general fund, rather than the specific sources most closely allied to road work. In these states there is no way of telling just how much of the motorists' money is spent directly for his benefit.

The sure spot is the distribution of auto receipts for the benefit of motorists. Not in gasoline taxation. Auto clubs generally have fought this form of revenue. Yet three-fourths of the country has adopted it and signs point toward its nationwide adoption in a few years.

Auto officials would look upon this outcome with resignation, if only this additional revenue were applied for the benefit of the motorist. Last year $14,500,000 of the $32,500,000 obtained this way was put in some other use, while the motorist seemed to be footing the bills of other departments.

It is this apparent unfairness that auto clubs are condemning and condemning.

Starter trouble, 28 per cent; tires, 10 per cent; battery, 7.7 per cent; ignition, 3.8; carburetor, 6.6; gas and oil, 1.8; clutch, 1.4; wrecks, 2.6; miscellaneous, 17.3. The rest, making up the total, were either calls canceled or "reasons not given."

Parking a car on a maintained highway is dangerous, warns the American Automobile Association. It is suggested that autos be driven into off roads, or well off the traveled part of the road.

PERSONAL BAGGAGE

An automobile may be taken along to Europe as "personal baggage," like a trunk. It may either be packed up, or driven right on the liner and secured to the deck.

AUTO TEST ROOM

The U. S. Bureau of Standards has just finished an elaborate testing room for automobiles and aircraft engines. The testing is done from the outside of the room, so that there is no danger of death from the exhaust gas.

Failure of any other aspirant to file notice of candidacy prior to October 5th for the office of superintendent of public utilities whereas Frank Talbot, incumbent, filed his notice a month ago, assured that Mr. Talbot will be elected again on November 4th and without any contesting aspirant. Until recently it had been anticipated that E. H. Marshall, who formerly contested the nomination for this office, would again make the race, but Mr. Marshall stated a day or two ago that he had decided not to make the contest this year. At the time of the August primary, when it was generally anticipated the fight for the Democratic nomination would be made, Mr. Marshall concluded then that if he ran, he would be a candidate in the general election. He vouchsafed a statement of his decision not to aspire again.

DAILY PUZZLE

"Two and twenty" is the old-fashioned way of saying "twenty-two." "Two and twenty" is divisible by four numbers, 1, 2, 11 and 22. Bearing this fact in mind, can you tell how many different numbers may be divided into twice two and twenty?

Yesterday's answer:

50	1	20
4	10	25
5	100	2

Here is the completed "magic square." Each row of three figures, vertical, horizontal and diagonal, multiplies to 1000.

MRS. LELIA WILSON GRAY
DIES IN WINSTON, N. C.

A telegram, received in this city yesterday by James H. Wilson of Danville; George N. Wilson, of Dallas, Texas; and her sister, Mrs. William P. Everett, of Kentucky, formerly of this city. She leaves four sons and a daughter, residing in Winston-Salem, with the exception of George Gray, who lives in Illinois.

Funeral services for Mrs. Gray will be held in Winston-Salem tomorrow (Sunday) at 3:30 o'clock p.m.

OUT FOR SEASON

TRINITY, N. C., Oct. 10.—Ed Bullock, quarterback on Trinity College football team, was severely back on the campus after spending two weeks in a local hospital where he underwent treatment for an injured spine and an abrasion of the kidney. Physicians say that he will be unable to play again this season.

Ed Lagerstadt, who was burned on the back by fire on the gridiron in the game against the College, is reported to be rapidly recovering from his burns and it is thought likely that he will be able to play in the game with the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on Saturday, October 11.

MACDONALD'S FALL

England's labor government which has been on trial for nine months has met the defeat which was forecast for it not many weeks after it had assumed office with Ramsey MacDonald as its leader. That it has been given a full and fair trial cannot be denied.The Liberal and Conservative elements in the House of Commons have hung like a sword ofDamocles over the head of the rugged Scotchman who was aware that whenever they chose to combine their forces they could outvote the government he headed. There have been situations arising from public issues when this merging of the two rival elements seemed inevitable but in a spirit of tolerance MacDonaldhas been assisted in charting his course through legislative channels and there has been a made of patience and an attitude of long-suffering exhibited one prompted by fair play and an earnest desire to see ifGreat Britain's economic plight could be improved by a labor government.

There has been no material change.

It was logical therefore at the first report of a possible alliance between the British labor government and the Russian communists that both Liberals and Conservatives should bury their past grievances and unite in disapproving any liaison between the two.The collapse of MacDonald's government came about with resistance to an effort to investigate the dropping of charges of seditionagainst James R. Campbell editor of a Communist organ which has soughtto inspire the same ideals which have engulfed the Russian nation. Mr.MacDonald may cry "murder" and "conspiracy" as he goes down in de-feat but there is something satisfying if not an omen of security in seeingthe opposing factions acting swiftly and decisively in the face of such a menace as an entente between Red

Russia and British government. The English speaking people will be the first to rebel and the last to yield to the stealthy purpose to spread thathateful doctrine which has brought misery to a great people.In justice to MacDonald, however, let it be said that he assumed a tremendous responsibility a great handicap. There is a wide rift between the tents of government in Great Britain and America. Over these premiers are born and not made and the theory of equal opportunity inmatters governmental is not accepted. For that reason MacDonald'seffort to give the country a fair and business like government stands out almost as a heroic one. He assumedoffice at a time when a public real-lessness was in evidence and with the country convalescent from the mortal wounds of war. That he should havesuccessfully handled the issues he has is a tribute to his sagacity.Next thing you know everybody will be talking about Christmas.

They have been saying jazz music was done with for about three years, but it isn't played out yet.Lots of fellows stand around and make excuses while lots of other fellows are making a success.

The railroad crossing kills almost as many as double crossing.

You can't kiss a girl these days who doesn't know how.

Statistics say there is a business revival, but you don't hear much about it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

In Condition

I have noticed that those who accomplish most are those with the soundest background.

Life in itself is very big. And the more you put back into life the greater does that mysterious urge arise within you which makes you want to live better and bigger.

It isn't so much what you say, or do—but what you are that counts in the important summing up of values.

It's so much a matter of conditioning that makes one man rise where the other falls.

It takes continual sacrificing, giving up, overlooking to warm a great heart. And there mustn't be any loose ends, no neglecting of vital needs. For it is upon the reserves of a well ordered life that a man must depend during the pinches.

If you keep your body, your mind, and your heart all in tune you will never find yourself pulling against yourself.

It's condition that tells the tale in an important athletic event as well as in an important life event.

Know the burn of failure, the bitterness of betrayal, the loss of friendship and you will be able to appreciate the gold of success, loyalty and love.

When Woodrow Wilson smiled and whispered that he was "ready," he opened the door into his soul and let the world look in so that it might understand what a great man had suffered and wished.

Keep yourself in condition and you will be fit for any call.

WEAPON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—For one week, at least, Washington has experienced all the thrills of a metropolis. Like the old prospector who has made a strike and plays millionaire for a day, she has had her fling.

From a rather easy-going, deliberate, if not—today—then-tomorrow-will-do towns, following all the circumlocutions of red tape, and maintaining a formal and dignified mien befitting the national capital, Washington changed for a few brief days to the hectic hurry and mad rush of a busy burg that has importance than the fate of the universe.

The streets were packed with jostling, bustling crowds rushing madly hither and yon. Taxicabs dashed wildly through the thronged thoroughfares. Hawkers called their wares along the curbs and speculatively inclined gentlemen hung out signs announcing wares for sale more precious than gold and rubies—tickets to the series.

For after 38 years of striving, Washington had at last landed a world's championship baseball series, and for the time nothing else counted. The whole town went on a spree, and a hundred thousand or so fanatical fans from other cities rushed in to help the jollification.

There'll be a headache when it is all over, of course. The high elation of such periods doesn't last.

And when Washington settles back to the humdrum of being just the national capital, with nobody more important than the president and the cabinet members, or occasional foreign dignitaries like the Prince of Wales or King Benjamin to plague its interest, things are going to seem mighty prosy. There may even be a bit of remorse, as the residents visit accumulation of work left undone which must now be tackled, and the deficit in their savings accounts due to dare-devil plunging on grandstand seats at world series day.

USED

Our army's pursuit planes, now traveling "only" 165 miles an hour, by the end of the year will be displaced by improved types making 200. Speed of observation planes will be increased from 120 to 160.

The goal of flying is speed. Quite natural, since the airplane still is primarily a military device. Gradually the goal will shift to economy of production, and to safety. Then flying will take its place with autos and railroads. The quest for speed rather than safety is delaying that day.

STRATEGY

An army officer, high up, says: "The essence of strategy is surprise, which can be attained only through secrecy."

That's true in warfare, through radio is making it increasingly difficult to preserve military secrets.

In regular life, the essence of strategy is accomplishment—worth and reliability. Success is not mysterious. Ed Howe has a lot on his side when he claims that it's easier to succeed than to fail. Life, after all, is warfare—the individual against the entire field.

FLOWER

Flowers that bloomed 30 million years ago are being reconstructed from fossils by Yale scientists.

These experts, rummaging in an excavation meaningless to the untrained eye, are able to picture the long ago in most minute detail. Scientists are the greatest detectives. Sherlock Holmes goes in for science instead of crime detection. That's why he pursues villains only in fiction. The average crime detective gets at least half of his results by such unromantic things as double-crossing and "pipe lines" into the underworld.

TRAGEDY

The news sometimes reads stranger than fiction. In Texas an old lady is reunited with her husband from whom she was kidnapped 53 years ago by her parents a few weeks after the wedding in Tennessee. The father, now 73, sees his middle-aged son for the first time. If it were in the movies, the critics would label it "impossible."

Bill demonstrated his belief, both by words and actions, the other day when the members of the supreme court justices need not rob a man of his human qualities.

At least so thinks William Howard Taft, who has served in both jobs. Dignity and formality are all right, and within bounds must be maintained in these jobs. Bill thinks it does public officials good to come down off the high horse and think and talk like average human beings once in a while instead of seeking to maintain an attitude of superman superiority.

Bill thinks it does public officials good to come down off the high horse and think and talk like average human beings once in a while instead of seeking to maintain an attitude of superman superiority.

Then up spoke Bill the chief justice of them all in informal terms: "Come on" he said waving his arms at the reluctant ones. "Can the chat. Line up and do your stuff. You might as well; they'll get you anyhow. And smile while you're about it!"

Which we submit shows that Bill is a pretty good scout.

When a man starts out to make a fool of himself he always finds a crowd eager to help him.

We must take our hats off to winter, and get new ones.

Human nature is what makes a man mad when someone steals the same overcoat he did.

FATAL

A fourth of the fatal accidents in the 67 leading cities are caused by autos. Census Bureau announces.

Motorcars kill twice as many as railroads, eight times as many as street cars.

Nearly all auto accidents are due to carelessness; either of driver or "the other party."

Pleading for caution isn't effective enough. Permanently depriving speeders of licenses is one cure. Others are examinations for eyesight, judgment and sanity.

WASHINGTON'S VICTORY IN DECIDING GAME SEES CITY GO "MAD" WITH JOY

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Baseball's trojan horse is over, and Washington, capital city of the gods, has vibrated far into the night the return of the fair Helen and carried captive to New York and held there throughout four years.

Aimless, spontaneous, contented joyous—even beautiful—was the service of thanksgiving which the city, in the greatest demonstration since the signing of the armistice, rendered to its heroes and its gods.

For Washington believes in its gods; is certain that on the pointed peak of the mountain rest Olympian deities that watched, waited, tested and tantalized their votaries during the trying days of the series and that at the end, conferred and said:

"These, our people, are deserving; and we will reward them."

It was to humble them, these fans were, that Walter Johnson twice was humbled; then, from the ashes of their chagrin, they raised up their swords to see him come with a flaming sword of vengeance—their Walter, with his fast ball, and his courage and invincibility.

Washington will say that, or any part of it, or more than that today, while the aromatic spirit of delirium still encircles its brain.

And Johnson, seemingly slain by the Giant twice, did come back; came almost unwelcomed, but came to victory which had been lacking without his touch, victory incomplete except that he led it, and Washington believes in its gods, certain that none but gods could conceive, create and produce such a drama of events as brought the world's championship to Washington and Walter after 12 innings of the seventh game by a score of 3 to 2.

As the allied Greeks entered Troy by strategy, so did "Bucky" Harris penetrate the defenses of the Giants, the youngest manager in the big leagues threw down the gauntlet of chicanery to the older John McGraw, known as "the little Napoleon" and the "master mind." With strategy the battle was fought; and because of it, in the history of the sport, possibly the greatest contest in the history of the sport, outshone the seventh game by a score of 3 to 2.

It was fought with the president of the country and many of the nation's prominent men in the foreground; the background was a map of villages and cities connected with Griffith Stadium by road and railroad.

When "Bucky" Harris started October, comparative unknown as a team, and then took him from the twilight, and then took him to the top after he had pitched to only two men, the people in Pittston, Pa., were certain that their hometown had put one over" on the mastermind by forcing McGraw to start his left-handed batters and then, either to use them against Mogridge, or "southern" or by taking them from the lineups, to eliminate all batters against right-handers. Marberry, if the latter relieved Johnson, had the last laugh.

In South Bend, Indiana, and Bellair, Ohio, and Sandiego, California, they knew all this and more, and in Washington at Griffith's stadium, they appreciated several fine stops, made by Bluege, playing at shortstop, in place of the injured Peckinpah, as they saw a marvelous catch by Hack Wilson, who dove into a low line drive and then skidded forward on his stomach with his hand upraised; they sensed suspense in every play, thrilled with the high tension apparent on the field. They watched Mogridge now down the invaders.

Then, in the sixth, they saw the Senators crack wide open while the last Giants drove three runs through the breach.

Young walked and Kelly singled, sending Young to third. Harris sent Marberry out, and brought in Marberry, the relief pitcher who already had saved two games. Meusel scored Young with a sacrifice fly. Then came the lense. Wilson sent a slow throw over second which either Barnes or Bluege might have knocked down. It seemed. Kelly went to third and scored when Judge muffed Jackson's tap. Gowdy drove one through Bluege's legs and Wilson tallied.

Barnes went on with his same steady pace. The series seemed steady pace. The series seemed the "bag" for the Giants. When Bluege fouled out in the eighth their shrill cries of triumph sounded high above the crowd buzzing.

Then the gods sprinkled their magic on the field, mostly just in front of third base. Work ahead for Smith.

Liebold went in to hit for Taylor and drove a two base clout just off Lindstrom. Ruel made his first hit for the Green by a score of 13 to 7.

Lynchburg and Hampden-Sidney had a terrific tilt, fighting out a weird 22 to 18 game with the 22 in favor of the city of hills.

North Carolina State intercepted a University of South Carolina forward pass and won from the Gamecocks 7 to 6.

The University of North Carolina defeated Trinity college 14 to 6 in a rough and tumble game.

Invasions of the east by southern elevens, to be repeated this afternoon were crowned with much glory this season. Yale bowed to Georgia 40 to 0 and Syracuse ran away with William and Mary, although the Virginians slipped a field goal into the counting that made the score 61 to 0.

Texas A. and M. won from Syracuse last season by a score of 14 to 6.

The University of Maryland took the measure of Richmond two to 0. The difference between Lynchburg and Springhill last season was 15 to 6 in favor of the New Orleans outfit.

Clemson defeated the Presbyterian college of South Carolina 26 to 6.

V. M. I. defeated Roanoke 27 to 6. Kentucky defeated Georgetown from across the way 35 to 6.

Emory and Henry scored a victory 4 to 6.

Tulane ran into rough going with Louisiana Tech but finally pulled out

Shakespeare Club Has Fall Program

Miss Lois Cody, dean of Averett College, delighted the members of the Shakespeare Club and their guests, Thursday afternoon, at the first fall meeting of the club, when she read a paper on "Russia's History."

From the earliest to the most modern, she showed in so clear and concise a manner, and was so comprehensive in its scope, as to give a substantial background for the lectures on Russian music and Russian drama that are to be given, under the auspices of the club, during the season.

Miss Cody showed a complete mastery of her subject and interpreted it with ease and compelling enthusiasm.

After the lecture, a social hour was spent, the hostesses, Mrs. Louis Kaufman and Mrs. Herbert Hoffman, serving refreshments.

The marriage of Henry Scott and Miss Gertrude Castle was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Lucy Scott, 607 Loyal Street, Thursday evening at seven o'clock, Rev. G. W. M. Taylor officiating. Sanford sang a solo, "See Our Self Face to Face."

A PLAY AND SUNDAY FROCK
FROM ONE PATTERN

For wee maid's of 2, 4 and 6 years, this pert affair has been designed.

Dotted Swiss, printed percale or fancy gingham could be used for one little dress and bloomer, with trimming of lawn, linen or organdie. Another would be sweet made in fine batiste or French voile and trimmed with ruffling as shown in the small sketch.

Mrs. W. W. Ayres' Large Bible Class

Has Dinner.

The large bible class of ladies conducted and taught by Mrs. W. W. Ayres in Main Street Methodist Sunday school and which is also one of the oldest of the organized classes of Danville, last night had its annual dinner at the Country Club, with about 75 ladies present. These annual gatherings are always of especial interest to the ladies of the class and are enjoyable from the standpoint of sociability no less than for quantity and variety of the viands spread for the enjoyment of the diners.

Last night's dinner proved to be no exception to the rule, being, on the contrary, one of the best attended and most enjoyable ever held by the class. The ladies assembled at the clubhouse between 7 and 7:30, dinner being called at the latter hour.

As additional features the program had the Castleton stake, won by Etta Druen, trotting the second heat within a quarter of a second of the stake record held by Peter Volo. The stake for all ages was won by Hal Mahan.

Single G. was not good today, making a bad break in the first and finishing second in the final heat. Ben White made a double winning by taking the 12th trip with Harry Up.

SOUTH BOSTON, Oct. 11.—D. M. I. of Danville, will play S. E. H. S. here today. The South Boston team has been putting forth every effort during this week to get in good shape for today's game. The football squad has been increasing each week, and during the present week the squad is larger than ever known in the history of the school. Two new plays have been perfected during this week.

KIWANIS MEET TUESDAY

The regular meeting of the Kiwanis will be held at the Baptist church on next Tuesday, Oct. 14th, at 6:10 p. m. sharp.

PLAY WELL PRESENTED

"Springtime," which was presented at the Princess Theatre yesterday, was a success. The theatre was packed to capacity. Everyone expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the performance. Miss Margaret Hendricks deserves much credit for making the play a success. Every one who took part in the play deserves credit, for they did their part well.

NEGRESS INJURED

Lucy Rockland, an old colored woman, was coming down Main street, and just as she was crossing in front of William's store, was knocked down by C. R. Schafford, and badly bruised about her head, face and knees. She was taken to the Hospital, and examined by Dr. H. S. Bell, who found there were no bones broken.

REVIVAL LARGELY ATTENDED

Revival services which are being held at the Baptist church, are being largely attended and much interest is being shown. Dr. Sanford preached a powerful sermon Thursday night. He took his text from the 1st chapter of John and 42nd verse, his subject being "He Brought Him to Face." He made a fine talk which was very touching. After his talk, Mrs. T. R. Sanford sang a solo, "See Our Self Face to Face."

PERSONALS

Samuel Ellington was in Roxboro, N. C. Thursday and Friday of this week on business.

William slate has returned home after attending the state fair in Rich-mondville, and is now back in town.

Books such as "Flaming Youth," she answered. "Books of a sex nature have an appeal." Plastic Art, by a college professor has sold immensely.

Books called For

Miss Brooks quickly sought to disown her impressions that book loving public of Danville went in entirely for "something lewd." In fact, she has many calls for books of more solid character, and calculated to stimulate the mind.

"Yes," she said, "some folks are not sure what they want when they come in. We show them the synopsis on the book covers, explain to them the contents and try to help to a selection."

Miss Brooks seldom has a call for the classics. Great poets of the past have no appeal with the reading public.

"Men come in frequently for books of adventure and also history," she declared.

Giovanni Papini's "Life of Christ," at one time the best seller in America, was bought by hundreds of people.

"The Fool" Coming to Danville Again

"The Fool," Channing Pollock's much-talked-about play, presented by the Selwyns, which is underlined for a return engagement at the Majestic Theatre, Thursday evening, Oct. 16th.

The success and popularity of this powerful drama in New York, Boston and Chicago, where it was proclaimed a sensation, has made "The Fool" of national importance theatrically. No other play has ever approached it as a medium for drawing to the theatre so wide and distinguished a variety of personages comprising all denominations, creeds and beliefs for its appeal is universal. It strikes deep into customs and habits of the day, in living—life in general—and strife which is rampant; has aroused widespread discussion in the world of affairs, in finance, labor and commerce, and aims to harmonize widespread dissension that is existing between all existing opposing factions.

"The Fool" comes widely heralded. At the present time it is causing more talk than any other play or book—it is published in book form. There are those who like it and those who don't, but whether one or the other, all talk about it. Were it a play of one-sided interest it would have died and been buried long ago. It lives because people are discussing it and debating on it. And "The Fool" must be a great play to do that.

Its humble beginnings are now theatrical history. Its early presentation brought more criticism than popularity but suddenly took a turn and "The Fool" became a sensation. It was so different from anything the stage had ever offered that everybody wanted to see it, and finally the Times Square Theatre, New York, became crowded. Arguments from its arguments and moral, and looked on only as straight drama by those who do not care in the theatre for arguments on many question or the morals of the world, seeking entertainment on this outline of the story will interest them:

"The Fool" brings in a fight between Capital and Labor as a background for a struggle between Daniel Gilchrist, the clergyman and a coal baron's son, Jerry Goodkind, over a girl, Clare Jewett, who has known the misery of scrimping to keep up appearances; marries Jerry because he can provide her with luxuries, although she loves Daniel, who gives all he has above bare necessities, to the poor. A profit-sharing strike settlement is obtained for the coal miners by Gilchrist in the second act, and for this he is discharged from his position as labor mediator for Jerry's father.

In the third act Clare leaves her husband, who is a rake and a brute, and asks Gilchrist to elope with her. He sends her back to her duty as a wife. A mob inflamed by Gilchrist's settlement—these work demands of him, a sign that he is a son of God. They threaten him more fiercely when he declares that they are all sons of God, and then they have their sign when little Mary Margaret, a cripple, rises from her knees as in a foal by a blow, after praying "throughout the fracas that the minister shall not be harmed. She walks across the room without her crutches and the mob is awed.

In the fourth act Gilchrist and Jerry's father have a talk in which the coal baron acknowledges that Gilchrist is not a fool and failure after all. The Selwyns will present "The Fool" here with a special cast of forty people. The scenic investiture will be the same as the one used for the year-round run of the play in New York and Chicago.

EVANGELIST "JACK" POWER PROVES HIMSELF PROPHET

After Walter Johnson had sustained his second and more disastrous defeat in the world series on Wednesday before the attack of the New York Giants, Evangelist "Jack" Powers of Washington, seated in Frank B. McFall's drugstore, said emphatically and in the presence of several others: "Such loyalty as was shown by 'Bucky' Harris is not 'pulling' Walter when the Giants were slaughering his offerings will yet receive its due reward. Walter will yet cut a big hole between the Giants and the world championship, and he will be he who will win the great baseball derby for Harris and his mate."

Speaking yesterday, Mr. Power said: "Bucky" must appropriately be called the 'Golden Rule' manager. In the light of the sequel, it seems like he had been rewarded for his kindly thoughtfulness of 'Barney' in not embarrassing him by 'pulling' him before that great seething mass of enthusiasts who were so heartbroken to see their idol being shattered.

"Jawn" McGraw's highest ambition, apparently, was to defeat Walter; but Fate apparently decreed otherwise. So with the score tied in the eighth, Walter Johnson went upon the mound and, like David, slew Goliath, the world hopes were again J. the Giant, and to-day he sits upon the highest pinnacle of baseball.

"Nature has exemplified in Walter Johnson that a clean life will meet the strain when the trial test is over, should he decide to quit the game, will do so with the full contentment of having won the world championship for Washington. God bless old Walter Johnson! May he live on as an ornament to the game and an example to others; I suspect that a vast army of babies will bear the name of the greatest of all baseball heroes from now on."

Strangely enough, too, Evangelist Powers stated with emphasis that day before yesterday that he was sure "the last game would be an extra inning with Walter as the exciting mountaineer."

Mr. Power is an old friend of Mr. McFall and usually goes into to call on him whenever he comes this way. He will leave on Monday for Birmingham, Ala., to pursue his work.

"Unwanted Child" a Strong Play

Florence Edna May's most distinguished success "The Unwanted Child" which set the theatrical world to talking and talking—goes to buying seats to see it over and over again, comes to the Majestic theatre for two days starting Monday matinee and with a matinee daily for ladies only.

"The Unwanted Child" is in four acts, laid in the country and in New York and concerns persons who meet, look and love; the man a member of society, the girl quite the other end of the social ladder. The story of their love is told in a simple, direct, frank and frankness so direct, the play is produced by the Unity Play Company with such exquisite delicacy, and the portrayal of its heroine is done with such a depth of understanding and emotion that the performance takes rank as one of the most notable in recent years.

MOUNTAINS REPEAT MUSIC

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 10.—Accounts of strange music coming out of space in the vicinity of Spirit Lake and Mount St. Helena have been received here recently.

Albert Weiss, who had business in the Spirit Lake region in connection with mining claims, asserted that he heard the music, which include arias from some of the operas. Weiss' story was not taken seriously until August. Frye, superintendent of a Tacoma foundry, who had never met Weiss reported the same thing. Both men said the music was heard between 9 and 11 o'clock at night.

The tale has led to the supposition that radio waves from broadcasting stations have been picked up by ledges of minerals in that wild region and reflected back as sound.

It has been observed that several kinds of flowers are affected by music.

COUNCIL THREATENS TO SUE BOND CONTESTANTS

The city Council unmasked its batteries last night at its regular monthly meeting and prepared a counter-offensive on those who are attacking the validity of the June bond election. None also was served on the Council that the recently dissolved temporary injunction does not mean that litigation is at an end, but that the contestants will go to the court of last resort. The council's counter-attack was in the form of a resolution empowering the city attorney to institute suits for damages against those responsible for the pending litigation in the event the city suffers loss through the depreciation of the bond market.

Traffic Ordinance.

This was but one of several matters brought up for action last night, the meeting being the longest yet held by the new Council. The session lasted for nearly three hours, considerable time being consumed by the reading of city ordinances, all new ones and most of them providing for bond issues.

The Finance report revealed that the recent waterworks improvement cost more than had been anticipated. The early estimates were that the improvement would cost $125,000, but the removal of certain pipes, the necessity of which had not been foreseen in the original estimates, brought a twelve thousand dollar excess which the auditor was told to meet out of current revenues as the bills become due.

The report of the Public Works committee was nearly as voluminous as that on finance and brought up some interesting issues. Under the suspension of the rules prior to the conduct of regular business, James P. Brooks appeared and asked for the privilege of installing a gas-gasoline pump at the corner of Monroe and Union streets. This was brought up by Edmund Meade when he presented his report. The old Council had agreed not to permit any more curb gasoline-stations because of the tendency to congest street traffic. Two or three applicants who appealed for the same privilege as did Brooks have been refused permission under the Council's previous ruling. Mr. Meade, however, indicated a willingness to waive objection, and it is possible that at the next meeting a favorable report will be made though several of the Council members appeared to have pronounced views on curbstone filling-stations, in view of the ever-growing density of traffic.

Perhaps the most important matter included in Mr. Meade's report was an ordinance drawn by Julian Meade which would protect residents in Danville from being invaded by business enterprises. The ordinance was considered by some as the first step towards a plan of city zoning. Mr. Meade indicated an urgent desire to have the ordinance passed last night, and upon inquiry it developed that there is a plan on foot to erect a filling-station on the triangular section caused by the angle of Mount Vernon Avenue and West Main street. Some seventy residents of that section have signed a petition asking for action.

Objections Rousé.

However, there arose at once objections to adopting an ordinance not first submitted to the city attorney. Mr. Townes pointing out the doubtful wisdom of adopting on moment's notice an ordinance likely to provoke litigation. The ordinance had never been submitted to Mr. Aiken, and the city attorney told him that it would be impossible for him to pass on its validity without studying it carefully. Mr. Meade, however, was insistent that the ordinance should be adopted, last night, asserting that to pass it by for a month would probably result in the gasoline station being reared prior to that time. Mr. Meade said that the ordinance had not been submitted to Mr. Aiken because he had been given to understand that Mr. Aiken had been approached by persons on the other side of the question to represent them.

Mr. Aiken took issue with Mr. Meade on the veracity of this assumption and said that Mr. Meade was in error in assuming that the ordinance might be a source of embarrassment to him. A number of messengers from Council members that an ordinance adopted by the Council should first be approved by the city attorney indicated clearly that the zoning ordinance would not have been carried, so it was decided to have a called meeting of the Council just as soon as Mr. Aiken can study and approve the ordinance in question.

Recommend: Expenditure.

The appropriation made under the budget for the improvement of the new cemetery has been virtually expended, and the public works committee recommended the expenditure of an additional $6,000 to finish the work. This has been done.

The bridge over the canal from Spring street to Canal street has become so unsafe that it is considered dangerous for cotton mill and ice companies' trucks to cross it. The textile corporation wants a new bridge built and is prepared to advance the money for the project if funds are not available to the city just now. The mill corporation would be willing to have the sum forwarded and from its annual tax levy and preferably would see a durable concrete bridge built there. A rough estimate of the cost is about $2,700, a wooden bridge similar to that in use at present costing about $600. The appropriation was moved but no action on the bridge will be taken until the next Council meeting.
